

1st annual conference of the Institute for Political Ecology, Zagreb

Climate justice: perspectives from the natural and social sciences

Conference programme

Plenary sessions and two parallel sessions will be conducted in English. Remaining parallel sessions will be conducted in Croatian. Moderators of each session will assist with translations from Croatian into English in English-language sessions.

9:30-10:00 Registration

10:00 – 11:30 Plenary session #1

Welcoming notes:

- Vedran Horvat, Executive director, Institute for Political Ecology
- Danijela Dolenc, President of the Academic Council, Institute for Political Ecology

Keynote lecture:

Mirko Orlić, Full Professor, Department of Geophysics, Faculty of Science, University of Zagreb

Moderator: Danijela Dolenc

11:30-12:00 Coffee Break

12:00-13:30 Parallel sessions #1

Session #1A (in English): Contemporary Systemic Challenges

Moderator: Tomislav Tomašević

- Daniel Hausknost and Andreas Mayer: Degrowth, democracy and carbon capitalism
- Lidija Živčić: Climate change as a side-effect of a dysfunctional economic system
- Ivan Đula: Modelling the impact of "degrowth for climate justice" on income distribution in the EU
- Lana Tomić: Natural phenomena caused by climate change fostering the North-South gap

Session #1B (in Croatian): Examples of climate justice and environmental struggles

Moderator: Karin Doolan

- Drago Župarić-Ilić: Environmental changes and involuntary migrations: analysis of case of displacement due to floods in Southeastern Europe in 2014
- Andrea Matošević and Elis Baćac: Rockwool of contention
- Pinija Poljaković and Karin Doolan: How climate injustice is described by its victims? – perspectives of Kenyan CSOs
- Nikola Zdunić: Climate change and change in the city: the case of 100% Tempelhofer Feld initiative in Berlin

Session #1C (in Croatian): Climate and science: models, results, narratives and discourses

Moderator: TBD

- Ivan Guetler, Ksenija Zaninović, Lidija Srnec, Čedo Branković, Branka Ivančanin-Picek: Using numerical models in basic and applied climate research
- Nikola Biliškov: How much science is required in addressing climate change?
- Marija Brajdić Vuković and Mladen Domazet: Young Croatian scientists and climate change – academic disciplinary cultures as predictors of concern
- Vedran Horvat: Climate change in the Balkans media: from denial to apocalypse

13:30-14:45 Lunch

14:45-15:45 Plenary session #2

Keynote lecture:

Lučka Kajfež Bogataj, Professor of climatology, Biotechnical Faculty, University of Ljubljana

Moderator: Tomislav Tomašević

15:45-16:00 Break

16:00-17:30 Parallel sessions #2

Session #2A (in English): Development and degrowth: why, how and for whom?

Moderator: TBD

- Vincent Liegey: From climate change to a crisis of civilization, connect the dots with degrowth
- Branko Ančić and Nikola Petrović: Green economy as a response to climate justice issues: analysis of two approaches
- Jenneth Parker: Land-use, climate and social justice: a Convergence approach
- Marija Mileta and Luka Tomac: Debunking climate myths

Session #2B (in Croatian): Governance and Ethics for Climate Justice

Moderator: TBD

- Tvrtko Jolić: Climate change as an issue of intergenerational solidarity
- Melita Carević: The principle of common but differentiated responsibilities and its role at the Paris climate summit
- Tomislav Tomašević: Climate change and the governance of commons
- Dijana Magđinski: Who's afraid of uncertainty? Climate change as a collective-risk social dilemma

Session #2C (in Croatian): Policies for climate sense and climate justice

Moderator: Vedran Horvat

- Igor Matutinović: Climate change and industrial policy for sustainability
- Ivana Rogulj: Energy and climate – policies and democracy
- Slavica Robić and Branko Ančić: Energy poverty in Croatia – illustration of research in an aspect of climate justice
- Lana Jurko: Challenges of absorbing "climate justice" into the education system

17:30-18:00 Coffee Break

18:00-19:00 Plenary session #3

Moderator: Vedran Horvat

- Jelena Puđak: How inequality translates to vulnerability
- Sandra Vlašić and Robert Pašičko: Justice to address Climate Change impacts - how and for whom?
- Mladen Domazet: Political ecology narratives for climate justice

19:00-20:00 Cocktail reception

20:00 PARTY – Press Club